It's About to Begin...Who Can Stop It Anyway?

But why then do I already feel behind? I guess I start out each Advent/Christmas season feeling this way; mostly because the first Sunday of Advent usually follows on the heels of Thanksgiving Day. There seems to hardly be any time to truly shift holiday gears, unless I allow the merchants and the ads off the television and those crammed in the daily newspaper to dictate my sole preparation.

So as Thanksgiving Day passes and the leftovers no longer take up space in my refrigerator, I will find myself jumping right into the holiday spirit by dragging down the Christmas boxes from the attic; rearranging the furniture to make room for the tree; unpacking the mantle decorations and placing them in no particular order for the moment; making room for the Christmas china; and actually getting the tree up—sans lights & ornaments more than likely. For those of you who think I am way too fussy about the chairs in the sanctuary each week—don't even bother to stop by my house until the all clear has been sounded when the lights are finally to my satisfaction! ☺

So...let the season begin. Who can stop it anyway? But as it unfolds, each of one of us needs to figure out which things we can have control over concerning the speed and intensity of the weeks ahead. We are the gatekeepers and as such, we need to be able to apply the brakes and make every attempt to not be overwhelmed or overpowered by it all. And in attempting to do so, my thoughts today are about God and why God chose to come to earth as a baby...not as a baby prince; not as a baby guru; not as a baby of some rich and powerful leader...but as a baby born to humble peasant parents.

In The Drama of Christmas, Morton Kelsey suggests an answer. "The Divine wanted to attract us, not overpower us." I guess the overpowering part first comes with the care and feeding of a baby—especially this particular baby; let alone the sense of overpowering that comes later when we encounter this Jesus in his preaching, teaching and healing! But for now, we've been given this baby to care for.

Marilyn Brown Oden reminds us that you and I are invited to be alert; to watch; to wait; to pray; to make ourselves vulnerable—open to God being at work in our lives. We are called to welcome God's surprises as we hear the old, old story of this Baby born in Bethlehem with new ears and as we experience it once again with a new heart...

Take time to read through this holiday edition of the newsletter so you can be here to celebrate this holy season as part of our community of faith.

And let the Advent Adventure begin...May our hearts be stirred...Blessings, Rev. Joanne

Disciples Men Still Helping Out!

Our Disciple Men continue to be faithful to Covenant Christian Church. We had breakfast and helped out the Property Ministry's Beautification plans in November. We have several men reading the book "Chasing Francis" about a burned out mega church minister seeking the service mind of St. Francis of Assisi. We'll then consider it for a short study series.

Saturday December 4 we will meet with the Disciple Women for their Reconciliation Breakfast with Rev. Sèkinah Hamlin. Several basketball outings are planned for December as well.

Kids 2 Kids...Islamic Center Tour/Prayer Service

Saturday, December 4th, our children are trekking to the Islamic Society of Raleigh (meet @ the church around 12:40 PM to caravan) to participate in a mid-day prayer service and tour the society's facilities. We hope you can join us as we take the time to learn about the Islamic faith!

All are welcome! Questions? Don't hesitate to contact Jody Barish (jodylb23@yahoo.com) or Rev. Randy: randy-ccc@bellsouth.net) for more details.

UNDER Bethlehem's Sky...

This Advent season, beginning Sunday, November 28, we invite you to experience the Christmas story in a new way, as we await the birth of the savior. Our sanctuary decorations are meant to help each of us find moments of peace, reflection, and calm in the midst of a busy time of year. Under Bethlehem's sky, we find wonder and awe at God's majesty and goodness. Under Bethlehem's sky, we wait for Jesus to be born into our hearts and lives once again. Under Bethlehem's sky, we find hope, peace, joy, and love, as each week we gather to remember the true meaning of the holy day to come.

We hope you enjoy all that awaits you in worship this Advent/Christmas season as we celebrate together "under Bethlehem's sky."

Darla & Brad Baldwin, Worship Ministry Chairs

This year's Christmas play has been written and produced by Dennis Hartin and will be directed by our resident drama experts Suzanne Hopkins & Robin Miller. Questions? Contact the church office: (919) 481-4715 or Rev. Randy: randy-ccc@bellsouth.net

And Immediately following the Christmas Play...

...We'll Enjoy the Many Tastes of Christmas

Gifts of food are such a part of our many celebrations of this holiday season. What are the aromas and tastes of Christmas for you? Did your grandmother always make gingerbread cookies? Or create a Gingerbread House? Did your mother always serve your favorite pasta dish or sandwich on Christmas Eve? Did your dad smoke a turkey? How about your aunt's Yule Log cake or your own mint brownies or thumbprint cookies? Does your family prefer eggnog or mulled cider? Or good ol' hot chocolate? Yum! We're getting hungry just thinking about all this!

So, whatever your special holiday foods are, we hope you will bring them to share at our annual Holiday Tasting Party following the Children's Christmas play on December 19. The festivities begin at 5pm and end at 7pm. Childcare for infants & toddlers is provided. Come, share your special foods and enjoy the delicious treats provided by others! See you then...Ro Thompson, Suzanne Hopkins & Mary Lou Jackson, Membership & Hospitality Co-Chrs.

*A Service of Healing and Remembrance
Wednesday, December 15, 7:30pm*

Each of us approaches and moves through the upcoming holidays differently. For several weeks now, Christmas decorations are up; catalogs fill our mailboxes and letters to Santa are on their way; even before we've taken that first bite of Thanksgiving dinner. No wonder many of us claim Scrooge as our new BFF--Best Friend Forever ☺

These early preparations are enough to cause us stress and frustration, let alone when concerns of personal finances, employment, health issues(our own or those of loved ones), death of a loved one, aging parents, broken relationships or broken dreams come cascading over us; putting a huge damper on our holiday joy.

As a community of faith we are here to support one another in time of need and we do so as we share in A Service of Healing and Remembrance—a time of prayer and reflection that helps us slow down a bit; touch base with the true spirit of this holy time; tune out the hustle and bustle long enough to offer God whatever is empty or painful within us as we make more room for God's hope, peace, joy & love. Invite someone you know who would benefit from this special service as we see the presence of the Living Christ, the Light of the World, born anew this Christmastide. Childcare is provided.

*Christmas Eve Candlelight Communion Service
Thursday, December 24 at 6:30pm
(childcare provided for infants & toddlers)*

Come, O Long Expected Jesus...into our hearts, into our worship of Lessons & Carols with Candlelight & Holy Communion this Christmas Eve. Come, satisfy our spiritual hunger and longing for peace in our lives and in this world; as we strive to make this world a better place; filled with hope, love & joy!

Advent 2010 invites us to walk the Road to Bethlehem that brings us to the place where Jesus was born. We will meet interesting people and share stories along the way as the road beckons us to travel...And when the time is nigh, we will be able to say with the shepherds, "Let us go now to Bethlehem and see what has taken place that God has made known to us..." (Luke 2: 15b).

Invite others to travel the road with you as together we experience once again the birth of the Christ Child, born anew in our hearts this night...

(please take note of the holiday deadlines)
And ways to have an Eco-Friendly Holiday Season!

- Reaching out to the Urban Ministry Food Pantry

From November 28-December 12: please bring the following food items:

- Packages of stuffing mix; potatoes;
- Canned: yams, potatoes, cranberry sauce, vegetables, fruits, cream of mushroom soup;
- biscuit mix; cake mixes; prepared icing; pie fillings.

Also needed: $25 gift cards from Food Lion (only) to help purchase a turkey/ham or chicken.

*Please note: Beginning January 2011, we're asking you to bring regular donations of non-perishable food items the 1st Sunday of each month. This should make it easier for us to schedule deliveries to Urban Ministries.

- Reaching out with the Angel Tree

Be an angel by signing out one (or two or three -☺) angels from our Angel Tree and help 40 children receive a gift of needed clothing that will bring some joy to their Christmas.

Bring your UNWRAPPED GIFTS to the church by December 5th.

- Reaching Out to Fair Trade

The holidays are fast approaching and we have some great ideas for special gifts this season! There are plenty of chocolate bars; ornaments; and catalogs on the table near the office.

- Reaching out to Adopt-a-Highway

Please join the Outreach Ministry by dedicating a few hours once a quarter to pick up litter on a 2-mile stretch of S.E. Maynard Rd. from Cary Towne Blvd to NC 54. Won't it be great to see a sign on Maynard Rd. with our name on it! How's that for publicity! We need a minimum of 10 people to commit to this quarterly effort. Contact Renié Palmer: 919-481-2121 or Rpalmer123@nc.rr.com by December 15 if you are able make this commitment. This could be a joint effort of all of Covenant's ministries.

- Reaching out to the Helen Wright Center for Women

The Helen Wright Center for Women (HWCW) works to reduce homelessness by providing temporary housing and support services in a program to promote independence. You can help by purchasing a $10 Dominoes Pizza SCRIP gift card from Robin Miller any Sunday after worship.

Alternative Christmas Ideas

*Remember to recycle and purchase your "Covenant Goes Green" environmentally friendly cloth & nylon bags—they make great gifts and gift wraps.

Heifer International: Through purchasing animals in honor of a friend or loved one, you empower families to become self-sustaining and to share their knowledge and the offspring with other families in their villages as a way to end the cycle of poverty. As quoted by former president Jimmy Carter: "Heifer has inspired hope in hungry communities, where the gift of one animal can bring health, prosperity and peace." You can simply go to www.heifer.org to view the catalog and place your order.

Urban Ministries of Wake County Christmas Card project:

You can purchase a beautiful card with a local artist's painting on the front and a message inside that informs the recipient that in their honor a gift has been given to provide comfort to families living in poverty during this season of sharing. Cards will be available to purchase for $5.00 each before/ after morning worship starting on December 5.

WeCare Christmas Trees: You can purchase a Frazier fir tree from Ashe County, freshly cut December 3, that will be delivered to the church, thanks to Ken Hoffman, on December 5. This program goes to support needy families in Ashe County. There is an order form with instructions on the table in the entryway.

The trees need to be prepaid and the checks need to be given to Tim/Becky Stiles or placed in the envelope provided on the table. All orders need to be placed by December 1.

TIPS FOR A “GREEN” CHRISTMAS

Adapted from: <http://www.ecochildsplay.com>

- 1. Wrap Presents in Fabric and Forgo the Box: If you feel the need to wrap presents, which does create some wonder in children's eyes, try wrapping presents in fabric. Fabric is reusable and less likely to be tossed in a landfill after the presents are opened. You can find less expensive fabric that has already been cut into "fat quarters" at fabric stores, as well as thrift stores. Left over fabric wrapping "paper" is great for later kid crafts and quilting. If offered a box from a retailer to place your present in before wrapping, decline this extra packaging. The more we reduce, the less waste we create.
- 2. Decorate a Live Christmas Tree: Every holiday season, we see lot after lot of cut down trees. Many of these trees go to waste, and even those that come home with families end up in incinerators or landfills. The alternative is to buy a potted tree or, or dig one up in the forest . You can take advantage of live Christmas tree shopping to buy a new tree for your yard. Shop native plant nurseries to find the perfect species to replant after the holidays.

According to LiveEarth.org, "A single tree can absorb more than one ton of CO2 over its lifetime." If you don't have room on your property for a tree or you rent your home, you can plant your tree in a friend's yard or a national forest (along as you chose a native species). Click here for tips on caring for a live Christmas tree. Live trees can be expensive, and there is even a company that rents live trees to families for the holidays.
- 3. Ship Directly From Online and Catalog retailers: If you make purchases online or from catalogs, chose to ship the presents directly to the receiver. By shipping them directly, you will save money by not having to ship the gift twice (once to you, and once to the receiver). The money saved can be used to purchase gift wrapping from the retailer, if you feel that is necessary. You will reduce your carbon footprint for the holiday by not having your gifts be transported twice. If you must ship packages, use US Postal Service Priority Mail or Express Mail packaging. The Postal Service is committed to finding new ways to protect the environment and is the first in its industry to receive this certification." At least our government is doing one thing right.
- 4. Decorate with Homemade Items and Hand-Me-Down Ornaments: Kristen Chase, of Cool Mom Picks and the League of Maternal Justice suggests using cranberries or the traditional popcorn for decorations.
- 5. Buy Gifts That Count: We all have people on our lists we feel obligated to buy a gift for who really don't need anything. These can be challenging gifts to buy, and often, these gifts end up in second hand stores or landfills. To meet the challenge, think about giving gifts that count, such as carbon credits from TerraPass or a charitable gift to Heifer International.
- 6. *And of course, a donation to Covenant Christian Church in honor of a loved one makes a perfect Christmas gift as well! Also, think of ways to give gifts without spending money as you share special time together out of your busy life with a loved one.

Here's an opportunity to fill Covenant's Stock-ing this holiday season!

Even in the midst of all our economic challenges, you may be looking at end of year decisions that will affect your 2010 personal income tax, you may want to consider donating your appreciated stock to CCC.

The tax benefits are hard to beat for a couple of reasons:

- 1) the full value of the appreciated stock is deductible as a charitable donation and
- 2) you do not have to pay capital gains tax on the value of the appreciation. Your personal tax advisor can help you assess specific benefits. Stock donations may be used to fulfill balance of unpaid 2010 pledge.
